PIGEON MADE GOOD FLIGHT.

Chas. Myers, who is visiting his aunt Mrs. H. H. Holt in Waco, carried one of his homing pigeons with him for a Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and arrived home safely Wednesday morning twenty-four hours later. Charley raises homing pigeons and has quite a number on hand.

Must Be High Class.

"You have a beautiful manor house, but you ought to have a little village for the peasantry as we do in England. It adds to the landscape."

"All right," said the multimillionaire, "but it must be a restricted affair. No peasant admitted earning less than $5,000 a year."-Kansas City Journal.

His Misfortune.

"You have no one to blame but yourself for your unlucky business ventures," said the stern parent. "I advised you to look before you leaped." "I did look, dad," explained the repentant son, "and I didn't leap. I got dizzy and fell."-Buffalo Express.

An Awful Threat,

Father-You have no sense. I'm going to cut you off with a million. The Son-If you do I'll disgrace the family by riding around in a second hand auto.-New York Globe.

A Starter. Jack Makelt-How can we marry? I'm only worth $15,000, and that wouldn't buy your clothes. May Spendit-Oh, yes, it would, Jack, for nearly five years!-Puck.

His Strong Point.

"My favorite nephew, Oliver Tolliver, is-well, he's my favorite nephew," remarked the old codger. "B'cus, while he is pretty much always getting into trouble or having things go amiss with him, and so forth and so on, instead of blaming it on to somebody else or his luck or the party in power or saying he can't imagine how in the world it came to happen, he just scratches his head, grins a wry grin and says, 'Well, dad blame my fool picture; that's another time I brought it right on myself by not having as much sense as a barrel of hair!"-Kansas City Star.

Formality.

"I called to ask your permission to pay my addresses to your daughter with a view to asking for her hand in marriage.

"Go ahead," replied Mr. Cumrox. "Only I'm afraid a man with your ideas of courtship will be wasting his time."-Washington Star.

Food For Indigestion.

Young Doctor (after the departure of the dinner guests)-My dear, I think your party was a great success. His Wife-I hope so. I gave them the richest food I could think of .- Life.

Cautious.

"Waiter, do you guarantee these

"No. sir. I'm very optimistic about those eggs, sir, but 1 don't guarantee 'em."-Birmingham Age-Herald.

Honorable industry always travels the same road with enjoyment, and duty and progress are altogether impossible without it - Samuel Smiles

Perilous Chewing.

One of the troubles of most European armies is that those soldiers who can get hold of it insist on using that terrible explosive cordite as if it were a sort of chewing gum. Its popularity is due to the fact that when chewed in small quantities it has a stimulating and exhilarating effect, like small doses of alcohol. Its taste, too, is sweet, cordite being three-fifths nitroglycerin, an explosive which is sugary to the taste. When chewed in large quantities cordite becomes more powerful in its effects, bringing on a blissful state of ecstasy and sometimes making the victim of the habit see visions. But the real danger of the habit lies in the fact that though nitroglycerin will only explode when given a very hard blow or touched by an electric spark, there is always a possibility that the grinding of exceptionally hard teeth might provide the necessary hard blow. Within the last few years at least three soldiers-two German and one Austrian-have been blown to bits, the use of cordite as a chewing gum being the suspected cause.

Shy, but Ferocious.

No European has ever been able ta meet in their own dwelling places the Kukuhuhus, a shy, yet ferocious tribe of New Guinea. Other tribes of the country, while they have a great fear of the Kukuhuhus, manage to do a bartering trade with them. They bring salt, earthenware, dried fish, etc., and deposit them in a certain indicated place. They then retire for a few hours, being notified to do so by a curious cry from the distance. The mountain dwellers then descend to view the goods offered for sale. If they want them they put down other goods, such as skins, feathers and other jungle produce, next to those articles wanted by them. Then they retire in turn, and when the way seems clear the coast dwellers approach again. If the latter are satisfied with what is offered in exchange they take the goods put down by the mountain people and go away; if not satisfied they retire again as before with empty hands.-Argonaut.
